

Life Membership for dedicated CRC Volunteers

Three CRC Volunteer Board members were recognised for their dedication to the organisation in December. Kaye kicked off the presentations to Sue Betteridge and Mac Hewlett. Little did Kaye know that Coops was waiting in the wings to present her with her own award.

As proud founding members of the CRC they have work tirelessly since 2008-2009 on the Steering Committee collaborating with the Shire to guide the direction through positive engagement with stakeholders and the broader community. Their individual wide and diverse connections has ensured a strong direction from the very beginning. Guiding the policies and the governance whilst ensuring the CRC met the needs of the community going forward. Together their evolutionary thinking and total commitment in volunteer hours has seen the development of a centre that is now grounded in the community. We thank you for dedication and continued support.

Sue Betteridge with experience as a;

- Primary School Teacher
- Small Business Proprietor, floriculture

Sue has served as Secretary and on the board since 2008, overseeing Library Services, Merchandising and the life style workshops. Wordsmithing, attention to detail, artistic eye and high level administration skills have support the governance requirements of the organisation.

Mac Hewlett with experience as a;

- Retired Farmer and Skilled Carpenter

Mac made a huge contribution overseeing and coordinating the building refurbishment program from the beginning. He has served as an adviser on Risk Management, agreement negotiations, insurance issues, whilst supervising the building maintenance. It is his breadth of skills and professionalism is exemplary.

Kaye McGlew has a wealth of knowledge as a;

- Secondary teacher
- Shire of Dandaragan Counsellor
- SLWA Board Member and Foundation director

Kaye has chaired the board since 2008, has directed all Human Resources, staff communications, policies and the organisations governance ensuring the highest standard of compliance. Kaye has a vision for strong business and economic development for our region and a clear picture of the position the CRC has in driving this.
